

WIENER OR WIENER WÜRSTCHEN

Sometimes in the seventeenth century, a sausage maker Frankurt emigrated to Vienna and settled in the capital of the Habsburg empire. He knows how to make a good frankfurter, but that may not have been well sold among Viennese. Then he put the chopped sausage in a crispy package and called it sausage.